

ABSTRACT

A method and system for identifying predetermined attributes of information destined for multiple recipients (e.g., emails) and selecting (or sequencing) the information for transmission from a single queue based on those attributes. The emails
5 can be organized so that they can be more efficiently transmitted to their recipients based on the individual attributes of the emails.

60055579_2.DOC